

PERMISSION TO LIVE YOUR VISION

From this day forward, I, _____, excitedly, powerfully, and willingly give myself permission to live my vision!

I give myself permission to lead with who I BE – my core values.

I give myself permission to see that this vision emerging FROM me is a unique expression OF me.

I give myself permission to acknowledge that my vision is vital to myself and others.

I give myself permission to remember that I am right on schedule.

I give myself permission to own that I am enough as I am right here and now.

I give myself permission to understand it is my duty and responsibility to make my vision happen.

I give myself permission to stop hiding and start sharing myself, and my vision with the world.

I give myself permission to listen with curiosity as the details + next right steps are revealed to me.

I give myself permission to trust that I already have and have access to everything I need.

I give myself permission to express my vision in whatever form, shape or size it comes.

I give myself permission to allow the path to my vision to change, shift, ebb and flow.

I give myself permission to feel the joy, energy and abundance my vision provides for all.

I give myself permission to let myself screw up, fall down, ask for help and be supported.

I give myself permission to be okay not knowing everything while staying open to anything.

I give myself permission to turn my “chores” into choices and my “shoulds” into wants.

I give myself permission to love myself through it all.

I give myself permission to have fun bringing this vision to life.

I give myself permission to _____

I give myself permission to keep showing up and saying “YES!” knowing it is this vision or something even better unfolding for the highest good of all concerned.

And So It Is!
